Sound invention

Never again yell at the top of your voice and wake the dead-tired on the MRT. If you're shouting because the person at the other end can't hear too well above the cacophony of voices and station announcements, try the Jabra BT530 USB headset. Its Noise Blackout™ technology uses dual microphones to capture the sound of conversation while intelligently filtering background noise. We put this easy-to-use Bluetooth headset to the test. A colleague ruffled a plastic bag near her phone mouthpiece while speaking. The result: Though the ruffling was very disturbing, her voice was audible amid the plastic chaos.
